PICTURES OF WAPANUCKA ACADEMY RECENTLY DISCOVERED

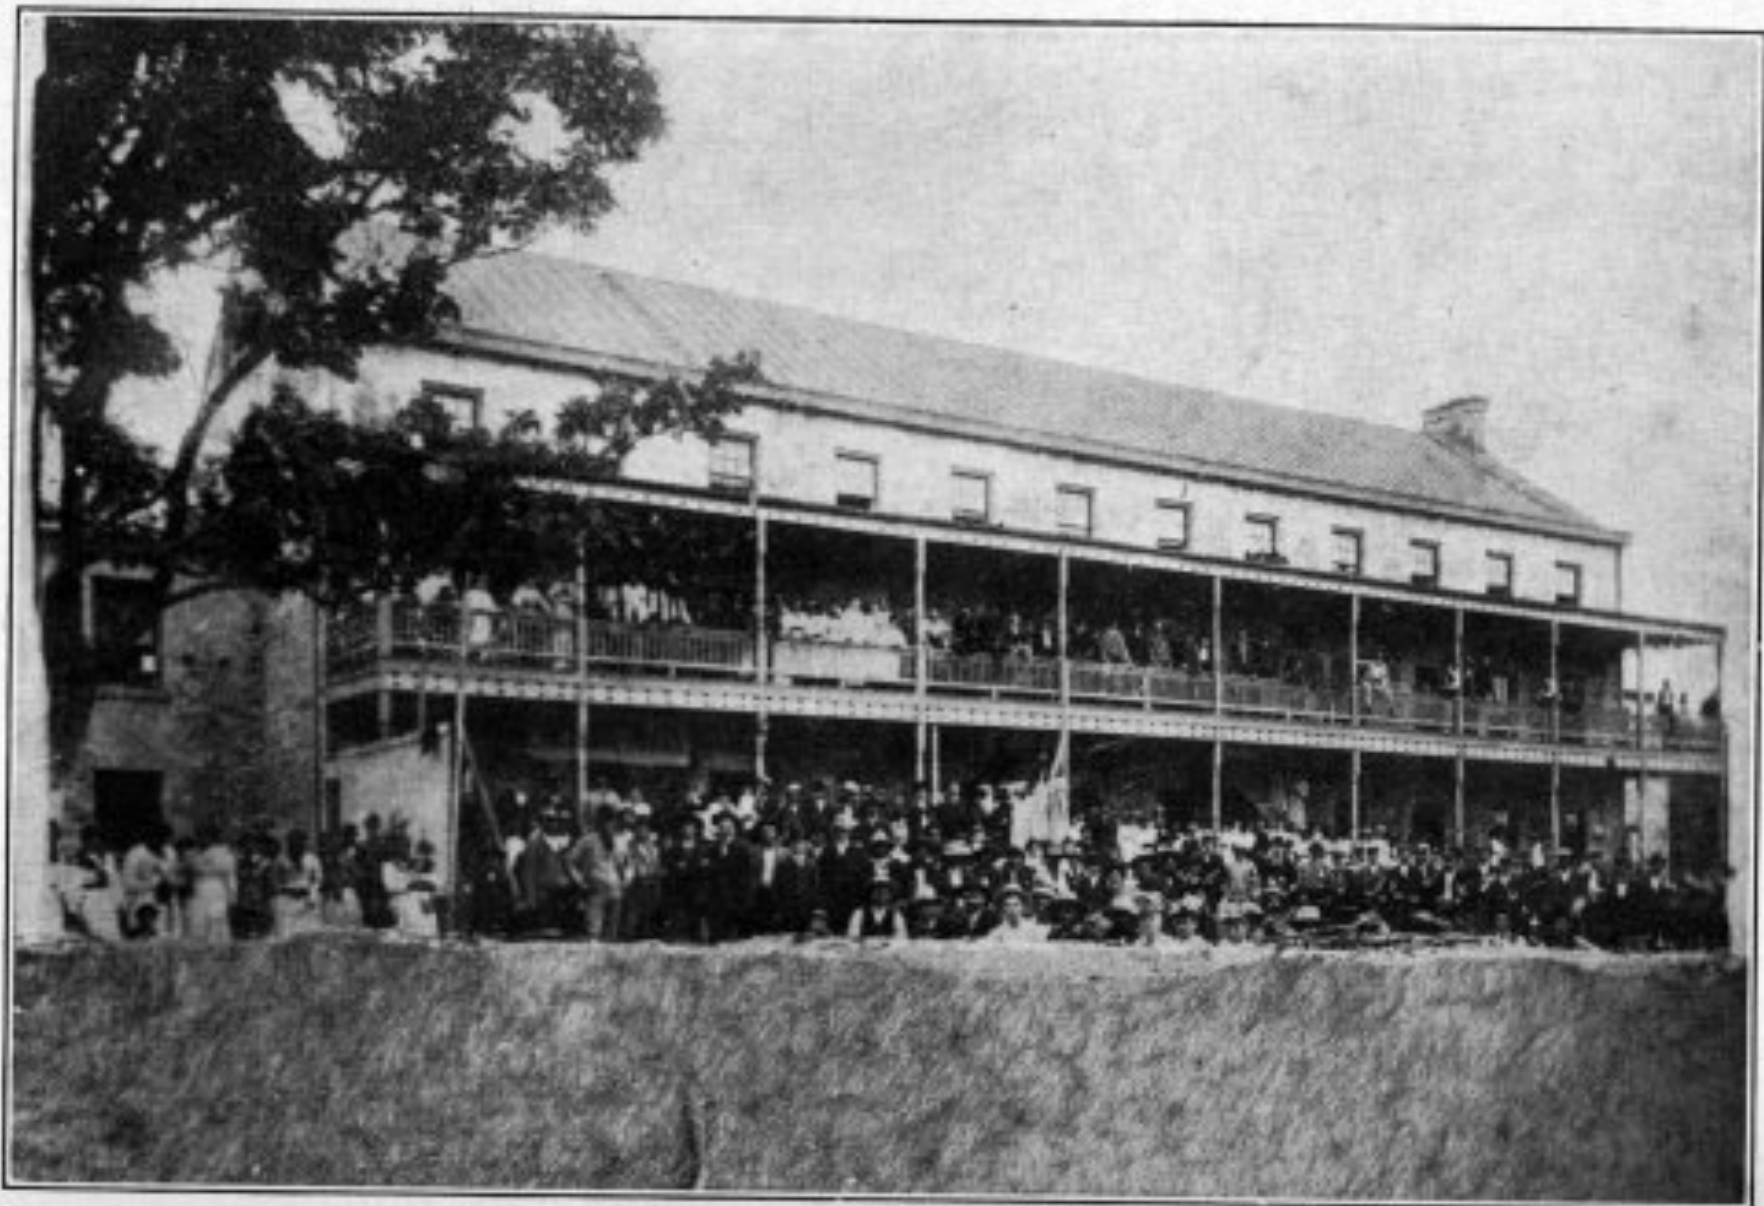

Another picture discovered of Wapanucka Academy, from another genealogy website, with the following description:

“Chickasaw Rock Academy where J. W. Pile had a room when he passed away on July 10, 1908. The Academy was located in Bromide, which was a short distance NW of Wapanucka. The Academy got its name, Rock, because it was constructed of rock.”

Another photo discovered of Wapanucka Academy labeled: “Photograph of the Wapanucka Female Manual Labor School, which was later called the Wapanucka Institute. The building, built one level at a time in 1852, was also known as the Chickasaw Rock Academy, and was located south of Bromide, Oklahoma.”
